How long can Bush hold his breath?

CHALLENGE A Rhode Island Democratic legislator says he will donate $100 US to charity for every second former U.S. president George W. Bush withstands waterboarding.

State Rep. Rod Driver also included former vice-president Dick Cheney and ex-secretary of state Condoleezza Rice in his offer.

Bush's administration allowed the interrogation technique, which simulates drowning, to be used on terror suspects.

Police continue search for Victoria Stafford's body

The search for Victoria Stafford's body focused on a farmer's field Thursday, where the woman charged with abducting the Grade 3 student and being an accessory to her murder was taken by police who had investigated the site only one day earlier.

Victoria Stafford

Terri-Lynne McClintic was seen sitting slumped down in the back of an unmarked police vehicle, hands behind her back, as it left the area near Fergus.

"She's doing everything she can to assist the police fully in their investigation and to try to help them find Tori and to bring her home," said McClintic's lawyer, Jeanine LeRoy.

McClintic had been scheduled to go out with police Thursday to aid in the search, said LeRoy, who added she did not have permission to address the allegations against her client.

Several officers at the scene spent some time examining an area under a large tree, a spot where police had been the day before with a K-9 unit in the search for the eight-year-old's body. Only about a kilometre away from the farmer's field, police sealed off a large garbage bin, calling it an item of interest.

The effort to bring Tori home safely turned into a grim recovery operation Wednesday after two people in her hometown of Woodstock were charged in her disappearance.

McClintic, 18, is charged with abduction, and being an accessory, and Michael Rafferty, 28, is charged with first-degree murder and abduction.

13 Edmonton workers share $49-million jackpot

VICTORIA HANDYSIDES
Metro Canada

Lotto lightning flashed down from the sky Thursday morning, struck 13 lucky Edmonton co-workers, and rained $49 million upon them.

"I'm still in disbelief, actually," Sara Gabriel, 24, said in an exclusive interview with Metro, her voice shaking with excitement.

Edmonton was buzzing Thursday when news that the winning ticket for the third largest Lotto 6/49 jackpot in Canadian history was purchased in the city.

30 arrests made in fake TTC pass scam

Toronto police say 96 charges were laid against 30 people who were arrested in connection with a blitz that targeted fake TTC Metropass users in Scarborough. The crackdown, dubbed Project Free Ride, was headed by police in cooperation with TTC's special constables. It ran from May 11 to 14 and focused on Scarborough bus routes and RT stations. Of the 30 people arrested, two were charged in connection to the production of fake Metropasses.

Emergency drill causes panic at Bloor West ESL school

A lone gunman bursts into a school — no, wait, five gunmen. Police are called. The school is locked down. Emergency Task Force officers arrive and search the building, room by room. Nearby streets are blocked off. A sobbing, pregnant woman is wheeled out on a stretcher.

A faux emergency unfolded at the Bickford Centre Thursday, fuelled by the rumour mill and a student who, unaware the school was in the midst of what was actually a lockdown drill, texted a friend, who called police.

There were no gunmen — and no, the principal and caretaker were not taken hostage, although a pregnant woman was in distress given all the chaos.

The centre houses adult English as a Second Language classes as well as a small, alternative high school at Bloor Street West near Christie Street. It's not known if a language barrier caused yesterday's confusion.

All schools must hold two lockdown practices each year.

School to build windmill on front lawn

FUNDING St. Basil-the-Great College School is a step closer to building a windmill on its front lawn after the Ontario government announced it is providing $50 million to help provincial schools go green.

The money will encourage school boards to cut down heating, cooling and energy bills by installing renewable technologies such as solar panels, geothermal systems and small-scale wind projects, Energy Minister George Smitherman said yesterday at St. Basil's in North York.

The $50 million will flow to boards in spring 2010.

Schools that go green will not only save money on energy and natural gas bills, they can also make money by selling electricity back to the grid through feed-in tariffs, he added.

The $50 million committed yesterday is in addition to the $550 million announced in April to retrofit schools — especially older buildings in need of new boilers and windows — to save energy and create nearly 5,000 temporary jobs.

The green push is part of the Liberal government's green energy act.

Cue Oshawa, Detroit Rock City is dead

CONCERT The only thing missing from Sean Shane's massive collection of KISS memorabilia is a Gene Simmons axe bass, autographed by the tongue-wagging rock god himself.

Shane sold it as a teenager. He needed money to repair his car, which he used to deliver pizzas around Oshawa's then-vibrant downtown. Shane, however, has found a solution that combines his passion for KISS with his passion for Oshawa. Last week Shane covered his car with an enormous decal of Gene Simmons's face, flames and the words "Vote for KISS in Oshawa."

The band is asking fans to vote where KISS will play this fall, as part of their tour. The crusade is paying off: Oshawa has soared into first place in all of North America, just ahead of Winnipeg. The concert would be a much needed boost to a community reeling from auto industry cuts. Votes will be counted next week.

Grits' Dhalla controversy deepens

First it was two Filipina caregivers who claimed to have been mistreated by Liberal MP Ruby Dhalla.

Now an 81-year-old Filipina woman claims she has been used in the affair, causing her to become sick, stressed and a pariah in her community.

Aurora Villanueva's name was attached to a purported statement this month from the Brampton Filipino Seniors Club.

The statement praised Dhalla's work with the Filipino community and said the MP had been "unjustly smeared" by allegations of abuse levelled by two caregivers hired to care for her mother.

But Villanueva issued another statement Thursday, retracting her initial endorsement of Dhalla. She now claims she was "misled by not being provided with sufficient information to make an appropriate decision" about signing the first missive.

Ruby Dhalla

She said the initial statement was written by Dhalla's office and she simply agreed to sign it, without reading it thoroughly and without being aware of the seriousness of the allegations against the MP.

Dhalla issued her own brief statement in response:

"I appreciate Ms. Villanueva's clarification; however she is not speaking on behalf of all the Brampton Filipino Seniors Club. Many members of the Filipino Seniors Club and community have expressed their support."

Midge swarms take over city bike paths

BUGS Small mosquito-like insect seeks same. Interests include snacking on detritus, clogging the teeth of cyclists and mating en masse in public places.

The warm weather has coaxed more than humans out of their winter lairs. The city has been inundated by hordes of non-biting midges, which are actually copulating mid-air.

760 Just in case you were wondering, there are 760 different types of midges in Canada and over 5,000 worldwide.

"The swarming that you are seeing is actually a reproductive swarm," said Sabrina Hall, an entomologist with the Royal Botanical Gardens.

"I try to keep my mouth closed," said Yvonne Bambrick, executive director of the Toronto Cyclists Union.

"Once you notice the bugs are out you tend to try and breathe through your nose a bit more."

She suggested keeping your head down, glasses on and even wearing a bandana over your mouth if you're looking to avoid an unwanted mouthful of protein. Adult midges, part of the chironomidae family, live for only a few weeks, so the mating dance is understandably frantic.

Respect for Ruby falling fast: Poll

POLITICS Ruby Dhalla has suffered a blow to her credibility and support since three foreign workers former caregivers alleged they were mistreated while working at the Liberal MP's house, according to a new Angus Reid/Toronto Star poll.

According to the poll, conducted online this week, Canadians are three times more likely to believe the workers' version of events in the controversy and 34 per cent of those polled said that they now have a worse opinion of Dhalla.

Voters in Ontario, Dhalla's home province, are among the most likely to judge the MP harshly, with 39 per cent saying they think less of the Liberal MP now.

Only 8 per cent of those polled by Angus Reid say they believe Dhalla's version of events, with 29 per cent saying they believe the workers.

Another 21 per cent say they believe neither side and a full 41 per cent of respondents said they were "not sure."

Cops identify city's latest homicides

CRIME Toronto police have identified the city's 19th and 20th homicide victims of the year — both slain on Wednesday in separate incidents.

Just before 11:30 a.m., police were called to an east-end home (on Munro St.) and found 27-year-old Jamila Hassan suffering from stab wounds.

She later died in hospital and a 24-year-old man was arrested at the scene and taken to the hospital to be treated for non-life-threatening injuries.

The body of the second victim — 43-year-old Tony Colantonio — was found in a west-end residence at about 11 a.m. Wednesday.

PC hopefuls oppose tax harmonization

DEBATE The four contenders to lead Ontario's Progressive Conservatives agree they oppose the harmonizing of the province's eight per cent sales tax with the five per cent GST, but none would eliminate it if the party wins the 2011 election.

Frank Klees

The first question put to the leadership hopefuls at the University of Western Ontario Thursday night was would they reverse the merging of the two sales taxes.

While all said they would fight the majority Liberal government's plan to merge the taxes, only Frank Klees offered any hope of immediate tax relief for Ontario consumers.

Klees was joined in the debate by Christine Elliott, Tim Hudak and Randy Hillier. THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Beach blankets signs

New designation unveiled in east-end neighbourhood

One east-end business by the lake balances the issue nicely.

"Beach Hardware," the sign says. "Your One Stop Beaches BBQ Shop."

The singular vs. plural debate was supposed to end three years ago, when residents voted 58 per cent in favour of "The Beach" as the neighbourhood's official name and marketing brand.

The follow-up came Thursday, when Coun. Sandra Bussin unveiled the first street sign to carry the designation.

"The Beach" says the sign, decorated by three seagulls in flight and a wavy blue stripe, above the street name "Queen St. E."

But the designer equivocates. In a nod to the fact that "The Beach" actually comprises four beaches, the words "Historic Kew Beach" are also included in the sign at Lee Avenue.

Other signs along the two-kilometre stretch of Queen Street East will make reference to Woodbine, Scarboro and Balmy beaches, said Beach Business Improvement Area director Deborah Etsten.

"We recognize that people still call us "the Beaches," and that's fine, too," she said following a lighthearted ceremony attended by pupils from Kew Beach Public School and mascot Beach Buddy.

"There are bigger things to worry about than a name," Beach Hardware owner Naveed (Chico) Khan said. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Police asked to count pennies

BUDGET Toronto politicians overseeing next year's city budget have put the police service on notice that it needs to count its pennies.

Despite perennial challenges to balance the $8.7-billion budget — with the Toronto police as the single largest item at $920 million — councillors on the budget committee earlier warned the cops not to exceed 0.5 per cent in increased spending in 2010.

Over the past four years, the increase in the police budget has averaged more than five per cent, well beyond the increase in residential property taxes. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

New credit card policies

Federal Finance Minister Jim Flaherty is imposing new rules on banks and other credit card issuers that will cost them "tens of millions of dollars," requiring clearer information and a minimum 21-day interest-free period on new purchases.

However, Flaherty said Thursday he has no intention of limiting card interest rates, saying Canadians have adequate choice in a well-functioning financial system.

Under the new regulations, the 21-day grace period on new purchases applies even if an outstanding balance is carried forward from the previous month, as long as the full balance is paid by the current month's deadline.

The new regulations will also require that credit card contracts and applications feature a simple summary box of "all salient information, such as interest rates, grace periods and fees."

Additionally, monthly statements will have to show how long it would take to pay off a balance by making only minimum payments. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pakistani nukes secure: Report

WEAPONS Security around Pakistan's nuclear weapons is "credible" and the threat of them falling into the hands of terrorists or rogue army commanders is remote, Canadian military analysts have concluded.

The assessment, contained in a briefing note last year to the country's top military commander, contradicts recent warnings by Defence Minister Peter MacKay, who said Pakistan was the most dangerous country on the face of the Earth.

The report comes after the Foreign Affairs Department took the unusual step of publicly contradicting the veteran Conservative minister over the issue of potential arms sales to the government in Islamabad. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nova Scotia talks curfew for kids

LAWS A pledge by Nova Scotia's premier to impose an overnight curfew on children under 16 was dismissed Thursday by his political rivals as a "silly" proposal that has been rejected in the past as unfair, unenforceable and unconstitutional.

Premier Rodney MacDonald said everyone under the age of 16 should be kept off the streets between 1 a.m. and 6 a.m. to curb crime.

"I believe any child aged 15 and under should not be out all hours of the night," he said while campaigning in Halifax for the June 9 election.

"If they are, it says to me that they're either in a situation where they are looking for trouble or where they are going to find trouble and neither is acceptable."

MacDonald

The Tory proposal would impose fines of up to $500 on parents of unattended children, but the premier stressed the penalty would be used only as a last resort.

In most cases, he said, police would take the young person home and explain the rules to the parents. However, if police kept returning to the same home, then the fine could be imposed, he said.

"I have a son who will be turning 12 this year," the premier said. "If my son was out at three o'clock in the morning, one would have to wonder why he's not at home."

Halifax police Chief Frank Beazley has said that youth curfews "clearly bring into play" the Charter of Rights and Freedoms, and would likely fail the test of a court challenge. THE CANADIAN PRESS

HANDOUT THE CANADIAN PRESS

Michael Thomas Rafferty, 28, is shown in this undated photo taken from Facebook. Rafferty is charged with first-degree murder and abduction, and Terri-Lynne McClintic, 18, is charged with abduction and being an accessory in the case of missing Woodstock, Ont. girl Victoria (Tori) Stafford.

Recalling Rafferty

Former acquaintance says something 'off about him'

It wasn't the first time Melanie Munger had been put ill at ease by Michael Rafferty. But the Facebook message she received in October 2007 from the 28-year-old self-proclaimed "hopeless romantic" set off alarm bells.

"He said he worked in a meat packing plant in Guelph and worked under a knife all day," Munger, 30, said Thursday in an interview.

"I thought there was something strange about that message. There was just something a little off about him."

Nearly a year and a half would pass before his name would resurface in Munger's mind. Rafferty was arrested Wednesday and charged with murder and abducting a child under 16 in the case of missing 8-year-old girl Victoria (Tori) Stafford.

Terri-Lynne McClintic, 18, was also charged with abduction and being an accessory to murder.

The picture former friends and acquaintances of Rafferty paint is of a young man filled with contradictions. He was deeply concerned with his personal appearance, but also conspicuous with his requests for places to stay when he got kicked out of home. While most describe him as intelligent and even funny, "weird" and "odd" are common adjectives that crop up. But the thought Rafferty could be capable of the level of depravity needed to kidnap and murder a little girl never existed. Until now.

Jim Bender, owner of Lady Godiva's Adult Emporium, which doubles as Woodstock's pipes and bongs supplier, says Rafferty used to come in to the store often to buy water pipes.

"He didn't seem to really stand out in my mind until I saw his photo in the news and I realized it was one of my customers," said Bender.

No more Mulroney-style deals

MULRONEY Tax authorities are no longer offering deals of the kind Brian Mulroney got to cut his income tax in half on the money he received from businessman Karlheinz Schreiber.

Christiane Sauve of the Canada Revenue Agency told a public inquiry the Quebec regional office of the CRA changed its practices last year on so-called voluntary tax disclosures.

Mulroney got $225,000 from Schreiber to help promote a project to build armoured military vehicles.

But under a deal negotiated by his tax lawyer in 2000, the former prime minister had to pay tax on only $112,500 of the total.

That was in line with a practice in the Quebec region of granting a discount when certain facts weren't clear. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ultrasonic LipiLoss and LipiLossIR (The Science). Available exclusively at Möcelle® Edan, LipiLoss™ is a break-through non-surgical alternative to liposuction which uses proprietary fat-burning micro injections to dissolve and sculpt-away stubborn patches of fat and cellulite (this process is called Infusion LipiLoss). Ultrasonic LipiLoss, like ultrasound assisted (UAL) liposuction, relies on the use of ultrasound to assist in the LipiLoss process. LipiLossIR is the use of infrared technology during Infusion LipiLoss to extra-corporally dissolve unwanted fat at the cellular level. Ultrasonic LipiLoss and LipiLossIR operates in much the same way ultrasound/light-energy is used to breakdown and flush kidney stones out of the body without making surgical incisions. LipiLoss is used to dissolve fat and cellulite in the following areas: Thighs, Love handles, Hips, Double chins, Tummy and any other area with unwanted fat.

LipiLoss vs. Liposuction. Unlike Liposuction, LipiLoss does not involve the making of surgical incisions, there is no bandages and no anaesthesia. LipiLoss is effective for treating cellulite as well as fat, wheares liposuction is not effective for cellulite treatment. LipiLoss is effective in treating small areas of adipose/fat accumulation; persons who have larger areas of fat to remove will typically obtain better results from surgical liposuction. Like liposuction, LipiLoss is not a weight loss procedure and neither is a substitute for diet and exercise—the success of both LipiLoss and liposuction are generally best measured in inches lost (not pounds lost). LipiLoss takes place over a series of treatments and there is no down time—you are able to return to your normal activities immediately after each procedure.

Superior to Mesotherapy! Proprietary LipiLoss is a stabilized formulation developed based on the results of clinical studies and uses Health Canada and FDA-approved medical devices. This stabilized formulation is the foundation of LipiLoss' superiority over mesotherapy and other infusion protocols. Unlike LipiLoss, mesotherapy has no consistency in its formulation and therefore no consistency in its results. LipiLoss works! And Möcelle® Edan is it's exclusive authorized provider.

Supreme Court turns down Afghan case

The Supreme Court of Canada refused Thursday to hear arguments that Canadian troops in Afghanistan should apply the Charter of Rights in their dealings with prisoners.

That leaves it to the Military Police Complaints Commission to investigate whether foreign captives delivered to Afghan custody by Canadian troops are routinely tortured.

The high court gave no reasons for its decision to refuse the case, its usual practice in dealing with requests for hearings.

"The evidence was plain that Canadian-transferred detainees are being tortured," said Paul Champ, lawyer for Amnesty International Canada and the British Columbia Civil Liberties Association, which brought the case.

"The evidence was plain that Canadian-transferred detainees are being tortured."
Paul Champ, Amnesty International lawyer

"It is disappointing that the Supreme Court did not view this situation as warranting the attention of the highest court in the land."

The two groups have complained to the military police commission, which starts related hearings Monday.

Champ had hoped to argue before the high court that handing foreign prisoners to Afghan authorities without assurance they won't be tortured violates the charter.

The Federal Court of Canada, in a ruling essentially upheld by Thursday's decision, said captives must rely on international legal protections. Amnesty International says Afghan prisoners have no effective way of enforcing such protections — except through the Charter of Rights.

A spokeswoman for National Defence said the federal government is pleased with the Supreme Court's decision.

"The transfer of detainees to Afghan authorities is assessed on a case-by-case basis, in accordance with international law," said Melanie Villeneuve in an email response.

Peter Bowyer of the Canadian Hurricane Centre reacts Thursday to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration predictions for the 2009 Atlantic hurricane season in Dartmouth, N.S.

Agency predicts near-normal hurricane season for Atlantic

FORECAST A U.S. government agency says a near-normal Atlantic hurricane season is most likely this year, but Canadian forecasters are playing down the accuracy of long-term storm predictions.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration is calling for a 50 per cent probability of a near-normal season in its initial outlook for the 2009 Atlantic hurricane season, which begins June 1.

It says there is a 25 per cent probability of an above-normal season and a 25 per cent probability of a below-normal season.

Peter Bowyer of the Canadian Hurricane Centre says it's difficult to predict the weather for even five days, making long-term six-month forecasts unreliable. He says Canadians should have emergency kits ready because one or more tropical cyclones hit Canada every year.

The U.S. agency says there is a 70 per cent chance there will nine to 14 named storms this season, and four to seven of them could become hurricanes, including one to three major hurricanes of Category 3, 4 or 5.

Pelosi panel voted down

U.S. House Democrats have defeated a Republican push to investigate Speaker Nancy Pelosi's claims that the CIA misled her in 2002 about whether waterboarding had been used against terrorism suspects. The House of Representatives voted 252-172 to block the measure that would have created a bipartisan congressional panel. Pelosi spokesman Nadeam Elshami said the speaker has already asked the CIA to declassify information supporting her claims. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Obama vs. Cheney, again

A defiant Barack Obama defended his intention Thursday to close the controversial Guantanamo military prison, calling the jail a "mess" that's jeopardizing national security.

But the U.S. president had barely stepped away from the presidential podium at the National Archives when former vice-president Dick Cheney delivered a stinging rebuttal a few blocks away, reiterating his claim that Obama is putting America in danger.

The formerly taciturn vice-president has become a distinct thorn in the side of the Obama administration.

Obama alluded to those frustrations in his speech, delivered in front of a display of U.S. founding documents, including the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

"There are those who'd like to re-fight debates that have been settled — in some cases, debates that they have lost," Obama said. "We will be ill-served by the fear-mongering that emerges whenever we discuss this issue."

Obama's speech came just one day after his first bipartisan defeat: Congress voting to block funding for any transfers of Guantanamo prisoners to U.S. prisons. Fifty Guantanamo detainees have been cleared to be transferred to other countries, the president said, but the White House did not provide names or details.

Cheney, meantime, was waiting in the wings with oratorical guns blazing.

"The administration has found that it's easy to receive applause in Europe for closing Guantanamo," Cheney said.

He added that Obama's decision to outlaw controversial interrogation techniques like waterboarding, which simulates drowning, "is unwise in the extreme."

"It is recklessness cloaked in righteousness and would make the American people less safe."

Cheney has emerged the staunchest and most vocal defender of Bush-era policies, unapologetic about waterboarding and other controversial interrogation techniques by insisting they saved "hundreds of thousands of lives."

Took the money and ran

THEFT Two New Zealanders whose bank mistakenly deposited $10 million NZ, ($6.9 million) into their account took some of the money and ran, police said.

Authorities launched an international search for the couple, who operated a gas station in the northern city of Rotorua, and their Westpac Bank said Thursday it considered the money stolen.

The two applied to Westpac for a $10,000 overdraft, but 1,000 times that amount was paid into their account. The two then withdrew some of the money and disappeared, Sgt. David Harvey said.

Harvey said Interpol has been contacted for help, suggesting they may have fled abroad with the cash.

Pledge to resettle Tamils

Sri Lanka said Thursday it planned to return most of the nearly 300,000 civilians displaced by civil war to their homes this year as the president called on the country to be magnanimous in victory.

President Mahinda Rajapaksa called on Sri Lankans to set aside their differences and make sure not to offend one another.

Meanwhile, aid groups and the UN have complained that their access to the camps has been severely restricted, and the Red Cross has said aid shipments to the largest camp have been stopped.

The Coalition to Stop the Use of Child Soldiers, an umbrella organization of international human rights groups, said it had verified reports that children as young as 12 were abducted from the camps and the nearby town of Vavuniya.

"(Some) have been taken away for ransom and their release has been subsequently negotiated by the parents, either by offering jewelry or cash," said Charu Hogg, Asia manager for the coalition.

Others have been abducted by paramilitaries and taken to Sri Lankan army camps, presumably for questioning over ties to the rebel group, which frequently recruited child soldiers, she said.

Irish victims angry that abusers not named

ABUSE The thousands of victims of Ireland's child-abuse homes say they are no nearer to real justice even after a mammoth investigation proved the horrors of their youth.

A nine-year investigation into child abuse by Ireland's Catholic religious orders painted a portrait of a system that shielded child molesters from justice and trapped generations of Ireland's poorest children to misery from the 1930s to the 1990s.

The victims, now mostly in their 50s to 80s, said Wednesday's 2,600-page report, despite its unprecedented scope and detail, did not make public what matters most — the names of their abusers.

That's because a religious order at the heart of the abuse charges — the Christian Brothers — successfully sued the investigators to keep the identities of all their abusive members secret.

Suspects planned holy war, police say

PLOT Four men arrested after planting what they thought were explosives near two New York synagogues and plotting to shoot down a military plane were bent on carrying out a holy war against America, authorities said Thursday.

The suspects were arrested Wednesday night, shortly after planting a mock explosive device in the trunk of a car outside the Riverdale Temple and two mock bombs in the backseat of a car outside the Riverdale Jewish Center, authorities said.

DO YOU NEED A DETOX?

	YES	NO
Are you often tired?	■	■
Do you get headaches frequently?	■	■
Do you have a hard time losing weight?	■	■
Are you bloated or retaining water?	■	■
Mental cloudiness?	■	■
Is your skin getting bad?	■	■

These symptoms above are some of the most common signs of toxic overload, and detoxing once or twice a year is often recommended as a solution. In a recent study of 116 women in the UK, 70% were satisfied or very satisfied with the results from their Biofirm detox.

I unjunked my body!

Lina works in the fitness industry in Ottawa and recently came across an article on detoxing. Here is her story;

"I was having a hard time losing those stubborn extra pounds and I was tired a lot, which showed in my face. So when I came across a Biofirm story in the local newspaper, it made me curious.

It definitely made sense to me that we get tired and bloated from too many toxins in our foods and from our environment. But I didn't know that it made us gain weight! So I purchased a box of Biofirm and took the recommended 6 tablets a day for a month with lots of water and high-fibre foods. I was determined to unjunk my body!"

I lost 11 pounds on the detox!

"In the first 4 weeks I lost 7 pounds. I definitely felt lighter and my skin was looking great – I was glowing! I had read that it could be unpleasant to take Biofirm but I actually enjoyed it, especially because you are still able to do your daily duties. You don't have to stay home or do it on the weekends.

After the 30 days detox, I wanted to continue, so I bought another 14 days of tablets. Again, I lost another 4 pounds and my clothes were getting very loose! I was thrilled - and the great part is that I didn't have to exercise vigorously for 6 weeks!!"

– Line B., Ottawa

DETOXING: A GREAT WAY TO START A HEALTHIER LIFE

Everyday, our bodies are exposed to toxins from the air we breathe, the water we drink and especially the processed foods we eat. If our bodies get overburden with toxins, our liver suffers and we start seeing the effect on our health; Our skin is affected, we get tired, we retain water, get headaches, digestion problems, bad breath and find it especially hard to lose weight.

Researchers have now discovered the biological cause of those stubborn pounds; Toxic particles bind water in the bodies' soft tissue and inhibit your metabolism from burning fat efficiently. The Conclusion: To lose weight, you must first cleanse your body!

Live longer in Japan

WHO figures show some dramatic changes

A girl born in Japan today will likely live to celebrate her 86th birthday, the longest life expectancy anywhere in the world.

Men fare best in San Marino, where the average boy will live to 81, the World Health Organization said Thursday. Sierra Leone has the shortest life expectancy for men — just 39.

The figures, in WHO's annual World Health Statistics report from 2007, show some countries have made remarkable progress since 1990 — partly by ending wars, partly through successful health initiatives. Eritrea increased its average life expectancy by 33 years to 61 for men, and by 12 years to 65 for women.

41 The life expectancy for men in Afghanistan. Women are not much better off. They can expect to live on average for 42 years.

Other countries showed a sharp decline. Women's life expectancy in Zimbabwe fell by 19 years to 44; Zimbabwean men live to 45 on average, compared to age 57 in 1990.

U.K. opens doors to Gurkha vets

SETTLE The storied Nepalese warriors who have served Britain's military for nearly two centuries were given the automatic right Thursday to settle in Britain, gaining a hard-won victory after years of lawsuits and lobbying.

The Gurkhas' fierceness has carried them through wars in the Falklands, Iraq, and Afghanistan. But their latest triumph owes much to Joanna Lumley, an aristocratic television star who used her passion and popularity to wring concessions from politicians desperate to survive the next election.

Since 2004, Gurkhas who have served more than four years in the military have been allowed to come to the country after they retire, but that had applied only to soldiers who retired after July 1, 1997.

The government argued that those who retired before 1997 — when the Gurkha base was in Hong Kong — had weak links to the country.

Storm of faith and politics

InStep

Christine Williams

Runner up in the Miss U.S.A. Pageant: Miss California's Carrie Prejean continues to grab the spotlight after a storm of controversy over a question posed by a judge during the pageant. Celebrity blogger and gay activist Perez Hilton asked Prejean — an openly professing Christian —whether she believed in the legalization of same-sex marriage. She responded that she did not, while explaining that it was her personal opinion and not meant to offend anyone. With the events that followed, the volatile issues of gay rights, free speech, moral uprightness and religious sincerity were hurled into the public forum like a grenade.

Many believed Miss Prejean's answer cost her the crown, including Perez Hilton who went on a subsequent tirade against her, calling her stupid and the b-word. His venom screamed: Agenda. Then according to Miss Prejean, Miss California U.S.A. officials pressured her to apologize for her statement and not talk about her Christian faith.

It was easy to sympathize with the 21-year-old young lady broadsided by the hostile ridicule of Perez Hilton and it was a pity that Miss California USA officials allowed themselves to be sucked in.

But then scandals started to surface. It was discovered that Prejean withheld information from pageant officials that she had posed in photographs in her underwear and topless when she was 17 while trying to make it in the competitive world of modeling. Her Miss California crown was now threatened as she was being portrayed as a liar, morally questionable and a poor role model.

Donald Trump finally came to her rescue supporting her right to free speech, which was really the central issue here, and decided to give her the benefit of the doubt on the photos and let her keep her crown after all. It should have ended there.

But now Prejean has announced her new political activism. She'll be working with the National Organization for Marriage to protect traditional marriages.

She also told Christian icon Dr. James Dobson about Satan tempting her with the initial question about gay marriage.

If only Miss Prejean had simply ended with Trump, re-iterated her right to free speech and humbly apologized for lying about the photos, she would have done herself a huge favour. But the saga continues as the ominous clouds around the Miss U.S.A. Pageant continue to swirl and suck it up in a tornado of religion and politics.

New vendors gritty and determined

UrbanCompass

April Lindgren

metronews.ca/lindgren

There aren't many places in the world where the arrival of a few new outdoor food carts causes a sensation. The fact that Toronto is one of those places is, well, so Toronto.

The idea of allowing the sale of something other than hotdogs, sausages and fries on the streets got its first serious hearing about two years ago. Many press releases later, four of the eight new, approved street-food vendors finally opened for business earlier this week. The fact that these purveyors of souvlaki, Eritrean injera, jerk chicken and biryani survived the complicated competitive process and believe they can make money is testament to their grit and determination.

Kathy Bonivento, who gamely answered reporters' questions, grilled chicken souvlaki and dealt with eager customers during her first day of business at Nathan Phillips Square, described a process that would make lesser folk give up immediately. She had to prove she had the experience and food-safety know-how to take on the responsibility of grilling kebabs for hungry passersby. She had to convince authorities that her Greek food was healthy and nutritious and ethnic. She had to win a taste test that involved five local chefs. And she was required to prove her financial wherewithal to get a street-food cart up and running. The cart that all Toronto a la Cart vendors must use costs $32,000. The trailer to haul the thing around costs $8,000. Bonivento pays $15,000 a year in rent for the Nathan Phillips Square location.

Her pita-wrapped souvlaki cost $5 each. She has to sell 11,000 of them just to cover her basic start up costs, never mind earn a living.

But in addition to winning the equivalent of a bureaucratic triathlon, the ethnic food vendors have also become symbols for a whole bunch of this city's sacred cows. The competitive process catapulted Bonivento and the other lucky seven into the ranks of the nutritionally virtuous, sent forth to rescue us from hot dogs and sausages (bad) and fries (really bad). They and their state-of-the-art carts are symbols of our obsession with food safety. They represent the multicultural nature of this diverse city. They will make tourists happy.

That's a lot of responsibility for Toronto's newest street vendors. A quick chat with Bonivento, however, suggests she's bearing up well and has it all in perspective: "We're just hoping everyone is going to love our food."

Car's reign as king over, Conference Board says

Canada's battered auto sector won't see even the hint of a profit for at least three years and emerge from radical restructuring a shadow of its former self, a new report says.

The Conference Board of Canada said the days when the car was king in North America are over, even when the economy recovers.

"The auto sector in Canada and the U.S. is going to be much leaner and smaller than it was in the past. It's not feasible, given the current business model, to operate large companies right now," said report author Sabrina Browarski, who is an economist.

"We're not going to see employment ever return in the near term to what we've seen in the past."

The report, part of the think-tank's spring industrial outlook series, says the short term for the auto sector is one of contraction, crumbling sales, red ink and massive layoffs.

The Conference Board estimates the Canadian automakers — particularly troubled General Motors Canada and Chrysler, but also Ford, Toyota and Honda — will lose $2.1 billion this year after dropping a cumulative $2.7 billion in 2008. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vanishing jobs

- Due to restructuring and plant shutdowns, 13,400 assembly jobs will vanish, bringing total employment to about 51,000 from more than 80,000 as recently as 2006.

Sherritt says financing for $4.5B Madagascar project lined up

MINING Sherritt International chief executive Ian Delaney says the Toronto-based mining company and its partners in the Ambatovy nickel project in Madagascar are within a month of finalizing all financing needed for the $4.5-billion project.

Construction on Ambatovy, among the biggest nickel developments in the world, is on track to begin commercial production in the fourth quarter of 2010, he said after the company's annual meeting.

The estimated cost of the project has ballooned to $4.5 billion, from the previous estimate of $3.2 billion, raising a question about how the cost overrun will be financed.

Business in brief

AUTOS The United Auto Workers union has agreed on a tentative deal with the U.S. government and General Motors that would cut labour costs and change the way a union-run trust for retiree health care is funded. The move is a key step toward GM's bid to restructure outside of bankruptcy court.

FORESTRY Canada's 14 largest forest products companies lost a total of $480 million in the first quarter with B.C. firms hardest hit, a report by PricewaterhouseCoopers shows.

Evgeni Malkin put Pittsburgh ahead for good by scoring twice in the third period of his first three-goal playoff performance and the Penguins beat the Carolina Hurricanes 7-4 Thursday night to open a two-game lead in the Eastern Conference finals.

BRUCE BENNETT/GETTY IMAGES

Pittsburgh goalie Marc-Andre Fleury stops a shot by Carolina's Scott Walker Thursday night.

Sidney Crosby scored a record-tying sixth goal to start a playoff game, yet was upstaged by NHL regular-season scoring leader Malkin during an exceptional performance that also gave Malkin the playoff scoring lead, 25-24, over Crosby.

Carolina had won five straight Game 2s, including the first two rounds this spring after losing Game 1 each time, but couldn't match Pittsburgh's Mario Lemieux-era like run-and-gun offence despite rallying to tie three times.

The Hurricanes will host Game 3 Saturday night.

Malkin, seemingly motivated by the Hurricanes' attempts to be more physical with him than usual during the second period, ended a succession of strong shifts by scoring the go-ahead goal that made it 5-4 with 8:50 gone in the third period.

Malkin, relying on his speed and offensive creativity to set up scoring chances on almost every shift in the final period, made it 6-4 less than four minutes later with a one-man goal.

He picked up the puck in the corner, carried it behind the net and used a spin move to put a backhander past goalie Cam Ward from a bad angle for his 10th of the playoffs.

Babcock has a grudge: Roenick

NHL Jeremy Roenick has a strong opinion on why Chris Chelios doesn't play much with the defending Stanley Cup champion Detroit Red Wings.

Roenick, a former teammate of Chelios when both were members of the Chicago Blackhawks, said Detroit coach Mike Babcock doesn't appear to like American players, especially Chelios.

"The coach just doesn't like him for some ungodly known reason. I think he's got a grudge against American players, but he does not like Cheli at all," said Roenick, who played this past season with San Jose.

Chelios, a Chicago native who was traded to the Red Wings from the Blackhawks in 1999, downplayed Roenick's comments.

"How does JR know anything — is he playing?" Chelios told the Detroit Free Press. "The last time I talked to JR was a few weeks ago, and it was about his charity pool party in Vegas."

MLB RESULTS

Toronto 1 Boston 5

Jason Bay set a Red Sox record with his 11th straight homer with runners on base and Jon Lester rebounded from two bad outings as Boston completed a three-game sweep of the Toronto Blue Jays with a 5-1 win Thursday night.

Bay hit his 13th homer of the year, a two-run shot in a three-run first inning, and Boston led 5-0 before Aaron Hill singled in Toronto's run in the seventh.

The Blue Jays began the series with the most runs in the majors but totalled just five against the Red Sox and suffered their first three-game losing streak of the season.

The sweep cut Toronto's AL East lead to a half-game over Boston, 15-2 in its last 17 home games.

Bay, a native of Trail, B.C., broke a tie with Kevin Youkilis and Tony Conigliaro for most consecutive homers by a Red Sox player without a solo shot. He is one behind the major-league record set by Hank Aaron in 1970 and tied by Ken Griffey Jr. in 1999.

Lester (3-4) had allowed 13 earned runs in 10 innings in losing his previous two starts. On Thursday, he gave up eight hits in 6⅓ innings, but escaped several jams.

The Blue Jays stranded runners at second base in each of the first four innings as they reached Lester for six hits and a walk.

Carlson, Wolfe on bullpen backpack duty

DAVID SINGH
for Metro Toronto

DAVID SINGH/FOR METRO TORONTO

Toronto relievers with the least experience, Jesse Carlson, left, and Brian Wolfe, carry bags of treats to the bullpen.

BASEBALL During the Blue Jays' homestand last week, relievers Jesse Carlson and Brian Wolfe could be spotted before many games carrying large backpacks on their shoulders as they walked from the dugout to the bullpen.

It was not either man's choice to do so, but rather a part of team tradition that ensures relievers with the least big league experience transport the bag, which is filled with an assortment of treats that help the bullpen corps pass time.

After all, unlike most players, the job of a reliever is distinct because it requires one to sit on the bench for most of the game. A reliever rarely knows when, if ever, he will be called upon to pitch and that can cause just a little bit of monotony, especially in the early innings of a game.

"That's why we got that candy bag down there," Carlson said. "Everybody kind of chews their seeds and eats the gum and drinks as many Red Bulls as they can during the early innings. Then, once the fifth or sixth inning rolls around, that's where we kind of lock it in."

When a starter like Toronto ace Roy Halladay, who routinely pitches deep into games, is on the hill though, the relief corps knows its services would probably not be needed. That's when Carlson says the group will start discussions about a variety of subjects, trash-talk included.

"We mostly try to stay focused on the game," said the sophomore lefthander. "But for some reason, if we know we're not going to be in there, we'll start opening up to conversation more and just kind of talk about anything that anybody brings up to keep it loose down there."

So who's the biggest talker in the bullpen? Carlson claims that distinction falls to righthander Shawn Camp.

"That guy never shuts up," said Carlson laughing. "We've got our bench up there in the pen and that's where I sit. He sits down below and it's a good thing, because he talks way too much.

"He'll make your ears bleed. It's brutal."

TFC takes a break on Oakville grass

It's an attempt to reduce the home field disadvantage.

Toronto FC players yesterday had a fast-paced two-hour workout on grass, a deliberate move by the coaching staff to give them a break from the daily pounding on the artificial surface of BMO Field.

"It's nice to get them out of the environment they're normally in and get them on some softer pitches," head coach Chris Cummins said on the sidelines of an Oakville field.

Beginning with yesterday's practice, Cummins said he hopes to have the players train on grass for their two heaviest sessions of the week. Not only will it save their bodies undo stress and strain from the harder Field Turf at BMO, but also allow them to use more skill as the ball gets a truer bounce, he said.

From the day it hosted its first soccer game on April 28, 2007, there have been complaints about the artificial turf at the 20,000-seat city-owned stadium. In addition to the impact on their bodies, players have also voiced displeasure at the difficulty controlling the ball, especially when the field is wet.

Last Saturday, when TFC lost 2-0 to the Chicago Fire, a pre-game downpour made the field incredibly slick and both teams struggled mightily to complete passes, especially in the first half.

"This turf's gotta go," a frustrated Dwayne De Rosario told CBC Sports after the game. "I'm sick of it."

De Rosario, who came to TFC in an off-season trade with Houston, which plays on a grass field, yesterday called the switch in surfaces for a couple practices a week "a nice change."

Weir tied for 2nd at Byron Nelson

GOLF PGA Tour rookie James Nitties finished with four consecutive birdies for a five-under 65 and a share of the first-round lead with Ken Duke Thursday in the HP Byron Nelson Championship.

Nitties, who on his tour bio lists clubbing, girls and movies as his special interests, was one-under through 14 holes and hopeful of getting one more birdie in his round. He then hit his approach at the 504-yard 15th to five feet.

His longest putt in the closing stretch was 12 feet.

The 26-year-old Australian, who appeared on the Golf Channel's Big Break series, finished second at the PGA Tour qualifying tournament last fall.

Rosberg sets pace in Monaco

FORMULA ONE Nico Rosberg continued his impressive form in practice by setting the fastest lap ahead of Formula One's Monaco Grand Prix.

Rosberg navigated the tiny principality's narrow streets fastest in his Williams, setting a best time Thursday of one minute 15.243 seconds across both sessions.

Although the German driver has led nine of the 16 practice sessions this season, his best finish through five races is sixth.

We need to believe in Bolt

Bolt. Even his name sizzles with speed. Usain Bolt. "World's Fastest Man."

It would be nice to believe he's the real deal, not just another athlete propelled more by chemicals than his own determination.

Then again, assume nothing in the modern age of sport. In a time where baseball players are paid $161 million over seven years and where bankruptcy dealings steal the hockey headlines, very little is pure. Even swimmers await rulings on the admissibility of synthetic suits, which must meet standards of buoyancy, thickness and water resistance.

You've got to be kidding!

Amidst the distraction, Bolt runs. And he keeps getting faster. His latest feat is a new world record at 150 metres in Manchester. He is a testament to what is possible for the human race.

Usain Bolt is 22 years old, stands six-foot-five and weighs 190 pounds soaking wet. Not your typical sprinter. He won three gold medals at last summer's Beijing Olympics, setting world records in the 100, 200 and 4x100-metre events. He's the first man in history to turn that trick.

"I think he's the next generation of running," says Alex Gardiner, Canada's head track and field coach. "I hope I'm not proven wrong."

Gardiner has been following Bolt since the Jamaican kid appeared on the international scene at the world youth championships in Sherbrooke, Que., in 2003.

In Beijing, the masses loved him. Bolt danced and mugged for the cameras every time he raced. Once across the finish line, he held his golden shoes aloft and kissed them.

It was glorious to watch.

Bolt will run in Canada in Toronto's Festival of Excellence at the new Varsity Stadium on June 11. It's important for his sport that he's going to be here.

"It's really saying that track and field is back," Gardiner says.

Let's hope he's right. Let's hope Bolt is what he appears to be: An exceptionally gifted athlete who demonstrates that human kind is capable of getting faster and stronger on its own two feet.

Lord knows there is a need to believe in Bolt.

Pixar's Up, in theatres next week, recently made history by becoming the first animated film to open the Cannes Film Festival.

High adventure

Directors dump animation clichés in Pixar's Up

ADAM NAYMAN
for Metro Canada

As the first animated film to open the Cannes Film Festival, Pixar's Up will forever own a little piece of history. But the film's co-director, Pete Docter, admits that he was still a little bit nervous on the eve of the black tie and red carpet premiere.

"It was scary going in," he says over the telephone from Philadelphia. "I'd heard that there was a lot of booing over there." (Maybe he'd been talking to fellow director Lars Von Trier).

One would have to be pretty hard-hearted to boo Up — opening next week — a typically nimble Pixar effort about a wizened old codger, Carl (voiced by Ed Asner) who attempts to honour the adventurous spirit of his late wife by affixing a phalanx of helium balloons to their home and flying to South America.

Movie Feature

While the film features numerous colourful adventure sequences, its emotional palette is surprisingly stark. An early montage tracing the arc of Carl's marriage is unsparing in its depiction of life's disappointments: Its hushed, heartbreaking images are about as melancholy as mainstream animation gets.

"We were inspired by Super 8 films," says Docter about this sequence. "There's something about (Super 8) that's very emotional, that makes it feel like a memory. And it's even more affecting without sound. So we tried to strip away the dialogue and the sound so that the audience could bring more of themselves to it."

On the web

- For movie trailers, photos and screen times, or to buy tickets, visit metronews.ca/movies

Some of Up's best moments are all about dialogue, however — like the bits featuring a pack of dogs who have been fitted by their dastardly master with collars that translate their thoughts into speech.

"The dogs came out of a different project," Docter admits when it's suggested that their scenes seem imported from somewhere in deep left field. "My co-director, Bob Peterson, wrote and performed such a funny take on this idea that we just had to use it, and so we wove it into the story." (Peterson also voices Dug, the most endearingly dim of the dogs).

"Our hope," he continues, "was to get around anything that was cliché. There are so many films were the antagonists are these dark evil characters, and we wanted to flip that." Docter is referring specifically to Beta, an imperious-looking Doberman whose malfunctioning collar forces him to speak in a decidedly non-alpha-dog register.

"It was great when we came up with the high-pitched thing," he laughs. "It's funny because he thinks he sounds like Clint Eastwood when that's not the case."

Flick steps up to spoof routine

Dance Flick
Director: Damien Wayans
Stars: Damon Wayans Jr.
Classification: 14A
Rating: ●●●

STEVE GOW
for Metro Canada

REVIEW You have to worry about a movie that begins with a thug in a dance-battle showing off by shoving his head up his own behind. Surprisingly in Dance Flick, that leading gag is actually deceptive.

The latest offering in the oversaturated market of spoof-comedies (a la Epic Movie, Date Movie, etc.), Dance Flick definitely has plenty of crass material about obesity and flatulence but it also rises to the monumental challenge of trying to scrape something original out of a horribly-flogged dead horse.

Luckily for director Damien Wayans, the bar is set pretty low.

Poking fun at such genre hits as Step Up, Save the Last Dance and You Got Served, Dance Flick places bumbling ballet dancer Megan (Shoshana Bush) in a rugged musical high school where she meets a pudgy Tracy Turnblad-type, a flamboyant Zac Efron-wannabee and falls for Thomas (Damon Wayans Jr. — that's right, son of Blankman), a street-wise dancer striving for acceptance into the trenchantly-titled Just Community College.

If you haven't noticed, the Wayans count is now at two. Oh, but there's more. In fact, one reason Dance Flick succeeds is because such celebrated kin as Keenan Ivory, Shawn and Marlon appear and help punch-up the script of their nephew's directorial debut.

Consequently, for all this film's vulgarity, there's an inherent cleverness with satire spanking on interracial relationships, single-parents and even the price of oil. Simply put, Dance Flick shockingly shows how few smarts it takes to improve upon today's spoof-comedy.

Dance Flick pokes fun at such genre hits as Step Up, Save The Last Dance and You Got Served, reviewer Steve Gow says.

Bloom skips formula

The Brothers Bloom
Director: Rian Johnson
Stars: Adrien Brody, Rachel Weisz
Classification: PG
Rating:

STEVE GOW
for Metro Canada

Although his debut film, Brick, never blossomed into a blockbuster, filmmaker Rian Johnson has earned big expectations for his follow-up.

That's because the audacious director ably set the unlikely genre of '50s film noir in a modern high school to create a fascinating slice of fiction. Now, Johnson aims even higher with The Brothers Bloom, a worldwide tale of intrigue and slapstick, underpinned in a fantastic magical realism.

Adrien Brody and Mark Ruffalo play the titular pair of lifelong grifters who are hoping to cash in on the perfect con — duping a clumsy, bored heiress named Penelope (Rachel Weisz) into financing a bogus plan to pilfer a rare book from a European museum.

Adrien Brody plays a conflicted con man in The Brothers Bloom.

The problem is, Brody's conflicted character (who desperately yearns for an "unwritten life") becomes even more conflicted when he finds himself falling for Penelope.

Like Brick, Bloom's greatest strength lies in Johnson's witty, quick-fire dialogue and original characters (while Penelope seems to surface a static exterior, she's secretly mastered martial arts, ping-pong and breakdancing). While this screwball nature to Bloom may appeal to some, others trying to pin down a genre may feel alienated.

Add on a twisted plot that gets caught up in its own complexity and those seeking a formula will feel further unsettled.

Impressive performances certainly boost the film's charm, but for all of Brody's sympathetic puppy-dog appeal and Weisz's surprising competence at comedy, the story still lacks emotional punch. Unfortunately, like their filmic forebear, The Brothers will also unlikely bloom into blockbusters at the box-office.

Paean to pretty face, not painter

Little Ashes
Director: Paul Morrison
Stars: Robert Pattinson, Matthew McNulty
Classification: R
Rating:

ANNE BRODIE
for Metro Canada

REVIEW Warning: Team Edward beware — Pattinson plays gay. Robert Pattinson, the moody anti-hero Twilight pinup, is just not that into girls in this damp, dark and decadent period piece.

The film is set in Spain in the 1920s, with Pattinson playing a young Salvador Dali, who arrives at Madrid's Academy of Fine Arts looking like a costume trunk explosion. He's dressed to kill, not in vampire black, but flowing silk brocade robes, turbans, thigh high leather boots and kinky school boy gear, determined to raise eyebrows.

We soon learn that this narcissistic, grandiose soul is desperately out of place, painfully shy and too sensitive for the world. When he's not posing in the mirror or crying in a corner, he's vamping.

Shortly after his arrival at school, Dali joins a brotherhood of radical student writers, painters and musicians. He and poet Federico Garcia Lorca begin a "bromance" which quickly morphs into a romance, a reckless undertaking given the political and social climate of 1920s Spain.

We follow their rather bloodless affair, but nothing much happens.

The star of the film is Pattinson's eerily perfect face, framed in relentless close-ups in a kind of pretty porn. His performance is disappointing though, gutless, consistently wooden and self-conscious.

In the end, Little Ashes is a lightweight film about a pretty face. One of the most original artists of the modern age deserves better.

Fast pace, flat gags

Night at the Museum: Battle of the Smithsonian

Director: Shawn Levy
Stars: Ben Stiller, Amy Adams
Classification: PG
Rating: ●●½

STEVE GOW
for Metro Canada

In 2006's Night at the Museum, technology allowed Ben Stiller to realistically wrestle all sorts of taxidermy in New York's Museum of Natural History. Now in Battle of the Smithsonian, Stiller goes to Washington D.C. and pretty much does the same thing.

Well, almost.

He may have gone from security guard to shilling dodgy products (like the unloseable key ring) on TV, but Larry Daley (Stiller) is still drawn back to the museum only to discover his nocturnal pals being carted off to the Smithsonian for storage.

But when the magical tablet that animates the historical figures accidentally accompanies them, a villainous Egyptian pharaoh (Hank Azaria) plots to unleash an evil army from the dead. That is, if Larry doesn't stop him first.

Yes, it's a thin premise but then, nobody is going to this movie for the intricacies of the storyline. Instead, this film is all about seeing giant CGI squids, Einstein bobble-heads and the Abe Lincoln Memorial come to life.

To that end, this movie works at a frantic pace, wasting no time getting into the action, inundating the audience with thick effects and pausing only to deliver a watered-down history lesson now and again (if you never learned who Amelia Earhart was, you'll know after this flick, sort of).

While a cluster of surprising cameo appearances (including the Jonas Brothers?) keeps the energy up, many other jokes simply fall flat, stretch out too long or just don't aren't funny in the first place. It's a shame the writers didn't get their hands on that magical tablet to help spring many of the movie's gags to life.

Tambien team shows the funny in Rudo

Rudo Y Cursi

Director: Carlos Cuaron
Stars: Gael Garcia Bernal, Diego Luna
Classification: STC
Rating: ●●●

PHIL BROWN
for Metro Canada

REVIEW Rudo Y Corso represents the reunion of three powerhouses of Mexican cinema: The writer and stars of Y Tu Mama Tambien, Carlos Cuaron, Gael Garcia Bernal, and Diego Luna.

Perhaps inevitably, the movie doesn't live up to the standard set by that contemporary classic, but it is certainly a very entertaining (if somewhat disposable) film in it's own right.

Rather than playing horny teenagers, Bernal and Luna play impoverished young men with delusions of grandeur and a maturity level roughly on par with their earlier characters.

Bernal and Luna star as Tato and Beto, two slum dwelling half-brothers with dreams of achieving stardom as a singer and soccer player respectively. A mysterious soccer scout comes to town (Guillermo Francella, also doubling as the film's narrator) and scoops up Tato, getting him a spot on a professional soccer team. Beto soon joins his brother and the two become instant celebrities on the field, but quickly lose it all.

Gael Garcia Bernal goes for the laughs in Rudo Y Cursi.

Tato tries to focus on a failing music career (highlighted by his hilariously tacky cover of I Want You To Want Me), while Beto gets into cocaine and gambling. Although soccer is the driving force in the movie, the film is really about the characters and the only time the sport even appears on screen is when it's necessary for the narrative.

Writer Carlos Cuaron steps behind the camera for the first time and while he doesn't display the same visionary talent as his brother Alfonso (Children Of Men), he does show plenty of promise that should develop in future films. The movie is nowhere near as powerful or meaningful as Y Tu Mama Tambien, but fortunately no one involved with Rudo Y Cursi even attempt to top it.

Instead, Bernal, Luna, and Cuaron simply tried to have fun and crafted a hilarious and poignant buddy movie in the process. It might not exactly be groundbreaking filmmaking, but Rudo Y Cursi does offer proof that subtitles don't always signal a boring movie.

Plenty to see, hear in Serbis

Serbis

Director: Brillante Mendoza
Classification: STC
Rating: ●●●

ADAM NAYMAN
for Metro Canada

REVIEW For all of the sexually explicit images on offer in Filipino director Brillante Mendoza's Serbis, it's the sound design that's truly jaw-dropping.

This intimate drama about the proprietors of a crumbling porn theatre is awash in noise. Although the film takes place almost entirely inside the "family" cinema — a multi-tiered movie house with plenty of corridors for wandering and dank nooks and crannies for all manner of illicit activities — the cacophony of the streets continually encroaches on the action.

The sensory overload is so pronounced, in fact, that the general absence of drama is almost irrelevant. Mendoza has been quoted as saying that the theatre itself is his protagonist, and the few human characters that do emerge are defined almost entirely in terms of their bodies (including one young man plagued by a massive boil in a sensitive area).

It's possible to read Serbis as a wry comedy of global capitalism, with its mom and pop porn-mongers struggling to maintain an honest business in a wrecked third-world economy. With its searching camerawork, the film works best as a guided tour of a spectacularly dilapidated environment. The trip may seem aimless but there's plenty to see.

No narrative Limits

The Limits of Control
Director: Jim Jarmusch
Stars: Tilda Swinton, Bill Murray
Classification: STC
Rating: ⊕⊕⊕½

PHIL BROWN
for Metro Canada

Tilda Swinton plays one of the many bizarre characters in Jim Jarmusch's The Limits of Control.

Like all of writer/director Jim Jarmusch's work, The Limits Of Control demands to be described with adjectives like meditative, deadpan, and cool.

As usual, Jarmusch treats us to a collection of the finest character actors in the world playing drifting loners in existential crisis, laced with the director's patented bone-dry wit. And like most of Jarmusch's recent movies, this is a deconstruction of a classic Hollywood genre filtered through the comedic quirks and philosophical angst of the director.

What Jarmusch did to the Western in Dead Man, and the romantic comedy in Broken Flowers, he does to the crime thriller here. The loose dramatic structure comes from the genre, but the characters, pacing, and tone are all Jarmusch.

Isaach De Bankole stars as an unnamed protagonist sent on a mission by some unsavoury characters. We never know exactly what Bankole does until the end, but the title of contract killer is assumed.

We follow him as he meets a series of bizarre characters in Spain, each offering Bankole a clue necessary to complete his quest. With the destination unclear, the movie becomes about the journey.

That plot summary makes the film sound meandering and episodic, which it is. But that's not necessarily a bad thing.

The point of this movie is not to reach a grand thematic statement or a sense of narrative closure, but to get lost in the atmosphere of Jarmusch's world and appreciate some wonderful wacko performances (by the likes of Tilda Swinton, John Hurt, and Billy Murray).

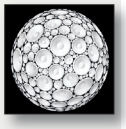
Music

Metro recommends

• 21st Century Breakdown, Green Day: Sprawling rock opera meshes melodic anthems and ornate ballads with plenty of angst and punk-guitar punch.

• Divided By Night, The Crystal Method: Intricate, big-beat techno that favours a live mix of swirling synthesizers, drums and guest vocals.



• Black Diamond, Buraka Som Sistema: Kuduro dance music from Portugal — a feverish fusion of ragged electronica, soca rhythms and afro-beats.

There's no place like home

Sunparlour Players covers familiar ground on new disc

BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI
for Metro Canada

Longing for home, or at least reminiscing about it, has long been a favourite topic among songwriters. Joel Plaskett's done it on his new record, The Weakerthans famously chronicled their home town in I Hate Winnipeg, and now Andrew Penner, lead singer for the Sunparlour Players, has tackled this topic on his group's new record, Wave North.

"It's the fact that you leave and think about the areas that affected you," says Penner, who grew up on a farm near the small town of Leamington, which is part of the Sunparlour district in southwestern Ontario. "If I still lived in the area I grew up in I wouldn't be writing these songs."

One track, Battle of '77 is, on the surface, about two dueling farming families separated by a road. While Penner's family didn't literally fight with their neighbours, it's still about the problems with small town life.

"For me that song is about people killing each other with kindness in small towns," he says. "All they do is smile and nod, but never really talk or engage."

Other songs can be more explicitly tied back to Penner's personal history. The song Nuclear is about growing up near the Fermi 2 reactor, while Mersea Community Horn Club is about the township the songwriter grew up in.

But, while there is a strong sense of longing in these songs, he's not championing where he came from. "This whole idea of nostalgia — I don't think it's about glorifying the place I came from. It's more like I'm trying to illuminate it. When you put a light on something, it can show the beauty in it but that doesn't mean it's a good thing."

Wave North, the latest album from alt-country outfit the Sunparlour Players, was released this week.

"That song is about people killing each other with kindness in small towns ... All they do is smile and nod, but never really talk or engage."
Andrew Penner

With vivid imagery and thoughtful lyrics strewn all over the record, listeners won't be able to help think about their own hometowns. That's also partly due to the grounded and folky musical style the group has become known for. It's Neil Young-meets-Canadian alt-country with a dash of Adam Duritz-like vocals — an ideal recipe for songs about home.

Penner points out that the record's not all about his past; a main theme relates to buildings, both in the physical and philosophical way. "There's a lot of stuff about building things and taking things down," he says. "That's a huge part of life once you leave home, because you're building another one, recreating the while idea of home.

"There's a lot of conflict in rebuilding and the fact is you're trying something," he adds. "You might necessarily get it, or be successful, but at least you're trying."

Green Day lashes out at Wal-Mart policy

SALES Green Day has the most popular CD in the United States, but it's not for sale there at Wal-Mart.

The band says the giant superstore chain refused to stock its latest CD, 21st Century Breakdown, because Wal-Mart wanted the album edited for language and content, and they refused.

"Wal-Mart's become the biggest retail outlet in the country, but they won't carry our record because they wanted us to censor it," frontman Billie Joe Armstrong said in a recent interview. (A spokesperson for Wal-Mart Canada said the CD is being sold in this country.)

While Wal-Mart sells CDs from acts known for raunchy content, including Eminem's latest, they offer customers the "clean" version of those CDs, which are edited for content that may be objectionable. But in Armstrong's view, "There's nothing dirty about our record."

"They want artists to censor their records in order to be carried in there," he said. "We just said no. We've never done it before. You feel like you're in 1953 or something."

Searching for rock in Southeast Asia

SoundCheck

Anyone who's not experienced the time-and-space disruption of jet lag will probably tell you that it's all in your head and you should just buck up and get back to work. But if you've ever experienced massive longitudinal displacement over a short period of time understand that the physical, mental and emotional effects are quite real. Having just returned from the far side of the planet — 12 full time zones away from my natural reality — I can once again vouch that jet lag is very, very real.

So before I completely lose it — it'll take a few more days for my body and mind to re-sync — here's what I found on my musical reconnaissance mission through Southeast Asia.

There isn't much of a rock scene, yet: Hong Kong, Thailand, Singapore and Malaysia are mostly about pop music, ballads and love songs. Rock scenes do exist, but they tend to be small, insular and confined to tiny clubs. That being said, they're learning fast. I found several bands, including A Vacant Affair who could find an audience in the West with fans who like Alexisonfire.

"Rock scenes do exist, but they tend to be small, insular and confined to tiny clubs."

Bootlegging is rampant: Indonesia is especially rife with piracy, although there is a legitimate industry there as well. Superman is Dead sounds like a slightly slicker NOFX. (Interesting note: Many Indonesian record stores still stock pre-recorded cassettes.)

There's no place for big bands to play in Hong Kong: There are some outdoor venues, but stringent noise bylaws get in the way. They once tried an experiment where everyone was given gloves to mute the applause and headphones so that the PA didn't have to be too loud. Oddly, that didn't work.

Want alternative and metal? Try Beijing: You'll find some pretty fierce stuff being played right under the noses of the Party bosses in Tiananmen Square. The music is loud and very, very angry. Many bands sing in Mandarin or Cantonese, but they get the message across.

And don't forget Malaysia: Call it the Linkin Park Effect. They're huge draws in places like Kuala Lumpur and have obviously been inspiring to a good number of local musicians.

If you ever find yourself in Hong Kong, check out a store called Rendezvous Records in Star House (right across from the Star Ferry docks in Kowloon). Staff is very helpful and the store's import selection is excellent.

Mike Ruiz, Canada's Next Top Model judge.

Beauty's in the eye of the judge

Photographer Mike Ruiz forms strong bonds on Canada's Next Top Model panel

BRIAN COULTON
for Metro Canada

The walk, the look, the appeal — Mike Ruiz knows what a girl needs to be a top model. But what he's looking for goes beyond classic beauty.

"It's a combination of a lot of things, most of which is innate. It's nothing you can really put your finger on. And because she is going to become a spokesperson for the Top Model brand, and also for Canada, we also needed a very smart, articulate, funny person," he said.

Ruiz is the latest addition to the panel of judges on Canada's Next Top Model, which premieres its third season Tuesday on CTV.

He joins host and America's Next Top Model regular Jay Manuel, fashion journalist Jeanne Beker and supermodel Yasmin Warsame, who will decide which of 11 model hopefuls will take the CNTM crown and a $100,000 beauty contract, based on a series of weekly challenges.

Spotting top models is nothing new for Ruiz. Once a model himself, the Montréal native and celebrity photographer has shot girls and sat alongside Tyra Banks, playing guest judge on previous seasons of ANTM.

And while Ruiz considered Canadian women considerably more reserved than their American counterparts before joining the domestic jury, he said this time around, things are going to change.

"This season, it gets a little dramatic ... let's just put it that way," he said. "The energy level is definitely amped up and definitely comparable."

Heightened energy equals heightened emotion for Ruiz, who never expected to form strong attachments to the contestants. He'd seen judges get teary-eyed on ANTM and always thought, "What's the big deal?"

"I didn't expect to be a blubbering little girl on air!" he said with a laugh. "By two or three judgings in, I was so heavily invested in all the girls that it just became so difficult. I shed more than one tear on camera, sending girls home."

And when it would come down to the wire and judges had to decide between two considerably equal women, Ruiz said his mind was made up in the first few seconds about which one would be able to pull through.

"If somebody is really charismatic and they understand what it is they're doing, they can be a good runway model and a good couture model and a good commercial model. It's all personality with me."

Baldwin apologizes for 'bride' joke

CONTROVERSY Alec Baldwin is apologizing for making a joke about getting a Filipina mail-order bride that provoked a sharp response in the Philippines.

The Emmy-winning actor quipped during a May 12 interview on The Late Show with David Letterman that he would love to have more children and that he was "thinking about getting a Filipino mail-order bride at this point ... or a Russian one."

On Wednesday, Baldwin said on the Huffington Post that he was apologizing "to anyone who took offence."

He said, "I believe that most people understood that this was a joke and took it as such."

Actor Alec Baldwin.

Philippine Sen. Ramon Revilla said Monday that Baldwin's comment was "insensitive and uncalled for."

He threatened him with a beating and said Baldwin is apparently unaware that the Philippines has a law against mail-order brides.

Douglas helms nuclear panel

WEAPONS Greed is good. A world without nukes is better.

Actor Michael Douglas, whose performance as the conniving Gordon Gekko in Wall Street won him an Oscar in 1987, spent part of Wednesday evening focused on a more critical cause — ridding the world of nuclear weapons.

Douglas moderated a panel of Washington experts on the issue — former Sens. Chuck Hagel, R-Neb., and Sam Nunn, D-Ga., and Robert Gallucci, a former U.S. diplomat who was chief negotiator during the nuclear crisis with North Korea in 1994. Gallucci told the forum gathered at the Italian Embassy that recent discussions between the United States and Russia hold promise, but the threat of nuclear terrorism is a legitimate concern, given the unrest in Pakistan.The event was sponsored by the Ploughshares Fund, which is dedicated to a nuclear weapons-free world. Douglas is a member of its board of directors.

Writer/actor taking off

One can't help but feel that this summer might be the season when the talented Alex Poch-Goldin's career finally blossoms the way it ought to.

KEITH BEATY/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

It's going to be a busy summer for writer/actor Alex Poch-Goldin, who has three productions lined up before July.

The 43-year-old actor /writer has given this city some truly wonderful performances, like his work in Canadian Stage's Angels in America, as well as some wildly imaginative scripts, like the erotic fandango This Hotel.

But the kind of sustained recognition such skill deserves has eluded him. That is, until now.

The next six weeks mark an amazing time for Poch-Goldin with three high-profile projects that he's a central part of nipping at each other's heels.

First up is Tapestry's premiere production of the opera The Shadow, for which Poch-Goldin provided the libretto and Omar Daniel the music.

Then on June 9, he's back acting at Tarragon Theatre, for its unprecedented second revival of Scorched by Wajdi Mouawad.

And then on June 30, he's up at Millbrook, where his latest play, The Right Road to Pontypool, will have its first preview for 4th Line Theatre, under the direction of Kim Blackwell.

"I consider myself very fortunate," Poch-Goldin says humbly on a break from rehearsals for The Shadow. "The fact that I'm able to write and perform new Canadian theatre is an artistic blessing."

However such work isn't always so financially rewarding and as the father of a young daughter, Chloe, and the husband of Nightwood Theatre's artistic director, Kelly Thornton, Poch-Goldin also feels "parental responsibilities are ingrained in me and I want to excel for their sake even more than for my own."

Poch-Goldin has been a bit of a self-starting engine from the outset. Born in Montreal in 1965, he was one of four children.

"As a little kid, I used to fool around an awful lot and my father would threaten to send me to drama school," Poch-Goldin recalls. "He thought it would be a punishment, but the idea sounded pretty good to me.

He did a play in high school and "got the bug," then went to Dawson College's Dome Theatre. "I knew what I wanted to do with my life."

His first professional engagement was at Montreal's Centaur Theatre, starring in Neil Simon's Biloxi Blues, but he really arrived with his performance in Angels in America, which was a huge hit for the Canadian Stage Company in 1996-97.

Afterwards, he entered the Toronto Fringe Festival, got a slot and was forced to write a play. The end result was an early version of This Hotel and it was a huge hit, allowing Poch-Goldin the playwright to step forward.

One of the scripts he developed was called Yahrzeit, the story of a Jewish family in Toronto. It hasn't been produced in Canada, but will begin its third German tour in 2010.

And thanks to Tapestry's Composer-Librettist Laboratory, he also began working with music man Daniel and they came up with The Shadow: "A fable about being yourself and accepting yourself for who you are," he says.

That theme would also serve as a good description of both his acting work in Scorched and his writing of The Right Road to Pontypool, which Poch-Goldin describes as a story about "the small Protestant Ontario town where Jews would go for their summer vacations from the 1930s through the 1960s."

All these projects fit Poch-Goldin's description of his aim in the theatre: "If I can bring chills to the audience, then I've done my job." TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Gosselins ponder what's best

Reality star Jon Gosselin says he and his wife, Kate, have had a lot to deal with lately.

The father of eight (twins and sextuplets) says he and their mom have been busy discussing what's best for the kids as the Gosselin family is facing a media firestorm.

A two-minute preview of Monday's season premiere of TLC's Jon & Kate Plus 8 provides a glimpse of the Gosselins in the wake of reports that both spouses have cheated on the other. They previously denied the allegations.

Jon and Kate both appear in the clip, posted Wednesday on the TLC website.

But each of them addresses the camera while seated alone on the couch.

"Kate and I obviously have been going through a lot of stuff, and discussing what's best for our kids," says Jon.

"My kids are the reason I have always done everything," says Kate in a separate segment.

Kate Gosselin

The kids are seen celebrating the sextuplets' fifth birthday party last Sunday at a water park near the Gosselins' Pennsylvania home.

"It gives me like a heart attack thinking about it: My youngest kids are 5!" Kate says wistfully.

"Kate and I obviously have been going through a lot of stuff, and discussing what's best for our kids,"
Jon Gosselin

In the closest reference to their behind-the-scenes turmoil, Jon says:

"The world isn't about ratings and TV. It's about happiness and love … and family and God."

The season premiere of Jon & Kate Plus 8 airs 9 p.m. Monday.

Dylan poem based on Hank Snow tune

MUSIC Christie's auction house said Wednesday that an early Bob Dylan poem was based on an existing country tune.

Little Buddy, estimated to fetch $10,000 to $15,000 once it goes on sale June 23, was "a revised version of lyrics of a Hank Snow song," Christie's said.

Fans of the late Canadian country singer "came out of the woodwork" to say they recognized the lyrics after The Associated Press wrote about the composition on Tuesday, said Christie's pop culture specialist Simeon Lipman.

Dylan was 16 and still going by his given name Bob Zimmerman when he submitted Little Buddy in the summer of 1957 for a newspaper at a summer camp in Wisconsin.

Simeon said Wednesday that the verse is still "among the earliest known handwritten lyrics of Bob Dylan," and expected to draw collectors.

According to the Hank Snow Country Music Center website, the lyrics and music for "Little Buddy" were composed by Snow, who died in 1999. The song was recorded in 1947 and became the singer's standard on the Grand Ole Opry stage in Nashville, where he performed for 46 years. It tells the poignant story of Little Buddy, who is killed at the hands of a drunkard, and the boy who mourns him.

Dylan revised the lyrics by changing some words around and adding some of his own, in effect following an old folk and country tradition.

An e-mail message left with Dylan's Los Angeles publicist was not immediately returned.

Holly Guncheon, the camp's development director, said Dylan, who turns 68 on Sunday, told camp officials through his nieces and nephews who work at the camp to "do what you want with it."

Fellow camper and editor of the camp paper, Lisa Heilicher, decided to sell the manuscript to help support the camp's $8 million capital campaign. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1 Inglourious Basterds
FILM Pulp visionary Quentin Tarantino's latest genre-bender doesn't hit North American theatres till late summer, but the buzz around the Brad Pitt-starring film's global debut at Cannes hit fever pitch this week.

2 CBS
NETWORK In these days of hit reality shows, CBS is an anomaly. The network remained the most-watched network for the 11th straight week, on the strength of its dramas and sitcoms. Last week, CBS averaged 11.2 million prime-time viewers, according to Nielsen Media Research.

3 Punch-Out
GAME Care to knock out King Hippo or Von Kaiser? The legendary Nintendo boxing game, in which you play up-and-coming fighter Little Mac, breaks its 15-year hiatus for Wii. If you were a fan of the original, this one would be hard to miss.

4 American Idol
WINNER Here's a little tip for winning America's No. 1 talent show: Don't be a judge's favourite. Just as David Cook trumped frontrunner David Archuleta last year, dark horse Kris Allen edged out best-bet Adam Lambert Wednesday night in the show's finale.

5 Canada's Next Great Sportscaster

BOB MARTIN/RED BULL AIR RACE

A pilot flies past 20-metre-high inflatable pylons known as air gates on April 18 during the Abu Dhabi installment of the 2009 Red Bull Air Race series. On June 13 and 14, the air race will return to Windsor, Ont., with the low-altitude course set up on the Detroit River. Windsor is one of six locations worldwide to host the series this year.

Flying low

• The sport of air racing returns to Windsor, Ont., on June 13-14, when pilots will twist and turn their aircraft through a low-altitude course on the Detroit River. The city is one of six locations in the 2009 Red Bull Air Race series — the others are Abu Dhabi; San Diego, Calif.; Budapest, Hungary; Porto, Portugal; and Barcelona, Spain. Aerobatic pilots fly at up to 370 kilometres an hour through a course marked by 20-metre-high air-filled pylons. Windsor Mayor Eddie Francis said the air race attracted about 750,000 spectators on both sides of the Detroit River last year. Officials said the race helped pump millions of dollars into the city's economy. The first Red Bull air race was staged in Austria in 2003.

Orchid fest

• Orchids don't just grow in greenhouses and exotic locales. They also grow wild in Ontario, and if you head to the Bruce Peninsula Orchid Festival on the weekend of May 29 and 30, you'll learn firsthand just how many this province is home to.

• According to festival organizers, the "Bruce Peninsula is renowned for its diversity of wild growing, native orchids. An astonishing 44 orchid species occur on the Bruce, ranging from abundant Yellow Lady's Slippers to the endangered Eastern Prairie White-fringed Orchid. For a small area, the Bruce Peninsula has one of the greatest varieties of natural orchids in North America."

• The festival is located on the northern Bruce Peninsula, based out of the town of Tobermory. The Park Visitor Centre, just off Highway 6 on Chi-Sintub'dik Road, is the festival headquarters. Here you can register for the festival, pick up a schedule of events and ask questions.

• Festival activities include guided hikes, orchid tours, orchid photography workshops and more. Highlights of the festival are the Friday evening presentation by visiting photographer Jim Hixon and the Saturday evening wine and cheese with a feature presentation by renowned naturalist Michael Runtz.

• Many of the field activities will visit locations in and around Bruce Peninsula National Park. Transportation between the headquarters and field sites is by private car-pooling.

• Pre-registration is required for all activities and presentations as space is limited. For more information, visit orchidfest.ca.

To market

• A Saturday morning trip to the farmers' market in St. Jacobs is always rewarding, what with a wide array of baked goods, cheeses, meats, local produce and other delicious items on offer. But if you want to sample some Ontario-grown spring delicacies, head there soon: Last weekend, green garlic and wild leeks (also known as ramps) were for sale, but the season doesn't last for long.

• See stjacobs.com for directions and hours of operation.

Monsters and other mythic beasts featured at exhibition

GATINEAU, QUE. Sculptures of a mythical Inuit sea goddess and a painting of a lynx-like water spirit are among items in a new summer exhibition at the Canadian Museum of Civilization in Gatineau, Que.

Mythic Beasts: Dragons, Unicorns and Mermaids highlights the role of fantastical creatures in cultures around the world.

A large green stone sculpture created in Cape Dorset, Nunavut, shows the goddess Sedna with webbed fingers and with braids flowing above her head. Another sculpture, in grey stone and created in Clyde River on Baffin Island, shows Sedna swimming like a bird over the sea floor.

The Mishipashoo is the title of a 1960 painting by Norval Morrisseau, who once described a religious experience in which he met the water spirit in a dream. Other Canadian creatures coming out of the shadows at the show include the ape-like sasquatch and the marine monster Ogopogo.

The exhibition also points out differences between European and Asian dragons: "The first are smelly, fire-breathing, evil monsters, while the latter are benevolent deities that bring good fortune and control the rain," says a news release.

CANADIAN MUSEUM OF CIVILIZATION

A large stone sculpture created in Cape Dorset, Nunavut, by Pitseolak Niviaksi, shows the goddess Sedna with webbed fingers and braids flowing above her head.

Mythic Beasts was organized by the American Museum of Natural History in New York in collaboration with the Canadian Museum of Civilization, the Field Museum in Chicago and other institutions.

• Mythic Beasts: Dragons, Unicorns and Mermaids is on at the Canadian Museum of Civilization until Sept. 20; see civilization.ca.

Kate's 'doctor wages' at stake

UGLY DIVORCE Kate Walsh's estranged husband Alex Young is embroiled in a court battle with Disney/ABC network president Stephen McPherson, after he attempted to subpoena the executive to testify at his divorce trial, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The Private Practice star's split from Young has turned ugly in recent months and now Walsh is trying to block her ex from claiming alimony in their divorce battle.

Meanwhile, he is attempting to expose the true value of the actress' assets in a bid to swing the judge's decision in his favour.

In his efforts to do so, Young has subpoenaed McPherson for a deposition to tell all about Walsh's financial situation.

Young's lawyer, Jeff Sturman, claims the TV executive has "unique" knowledge about Walsh's accounts because she is employed by his network as the star of the hit medical show.

But McPherson and ABC's lawyers have hit back with legal papers of their own, asking a judge to issue a court order blocking the deposition, reports TMZ.com.

ABC's legal team insists Young is "harassing" their client, adding McPherson was not "running ABC Studios" when Walsh landed the lead role in the Grey's Anatomy spin-off.

Young's case against Disney/ABC bosses will be heard in court on July 8.

Hayden could 'regret' tattoo

SHOULD'VE SPELLCHECKED Heroes star Hayden Panettiere has been sporting a new tattoo, an Italian phrase running down the left side of her back in script.

The tattoo should read, "Vivere senza rimpianti," or "live without regrets."

But unfortunately for the 19-year-old actress, the last word of the phrase is misspelled, according to Perez Hilton, making it instead read, "live without rimipianti."

Britney a-Twitter on beach vacay

FAMILY TIME Britney Spears showed off her fit bikini bod while on vacation in The Bahamas Wednesday, usmagazine.com reports. "Nothing better than a day at the beach with my family!" she wrote on Twitter.

The 27-year-old spent time building sand castles with her sons Sean Preston, 3, and Jayden James, 2. She also hung out with her dad, Jamie, brother Bryan and agent, Jason Trawick.

The singer just wrapped up the North American leg of her Circus tour. She kicks off her European shows on June 3 in London.

Cancer behind MJ show delay?

RUMOUR MILL Michael Jackson has delayed his comeback tour, femalefirst.co.uk reports. The singer will now kick off his London residency on July 13.

Shows scheduled to take place on July 10, 12 and 14 have been postponed to 2010.

It has been reported the 50-year-old star was to have surgery for alleged skin cancer yesterday, in which doctors were to remove cancerous flesh on his chest and nose, possibly followed up by radiation, the Britain's The Sun reports.

Randy Phillips, president of tour promoter AEG Live, dismissed the rumour, blaming the delay on the "massive and technically complex show."

He said: "Michael is not sleeping with elephants and not suffering skin cancer. He's a magnet for weird stories but he's in great shape. I'd trade my body for his tomorrow.

"This show has grown in size and scope, thereby necessitating more lead time."

Divorce called off — again

INDECISION Are Sean Penn and Robin Wright Penn reconciling again?

According to court records, the actor filed a request Tuesday to dismiss his legal separation case, Marin County, Calif., people.com reports.

"This appears to imply that they're reconciling again," says L.A. divorce lawyer Lynn Soodik, who is not involved with the case. "It's unlikely Sean Penn would request a dismissal for any other reason."

This is the second time the actor has rescinded divorce papers. Penn, 48, and Wright Penn, 43, started divorce proceedings in December 2007 after 11 years of marriage.

But they put the brakes on their action four months later, when a court clerk dismissed the divorce petition at their request.

Sean's rep did not return requests for comment.

Heather shows her good and bad sides

HOT AND COLD Heather Mills demanded a six-figure fee to promote a computer game featuring a one-armed hero, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The charity campaigner — who lost her left leg below the knee in a motorbike accident in 1993 — was asked to front Capcom's Bionic Commando advertising campaign, but incensed game bosses by asking for the huge sum and requesting her likeness be included in the game.

A source said: "She was insistent she wouldn't do it for a smaller fee and said the producers should make her the star.

"The request was way, way over their budget and they certainly weren't keen on basing the game on her."

Meanwhile, Mills has visited a fellow amputee in hospital following a plea on social networking website Twitter.

A user called crusty1 made a post asking the star: "My cousin has had her foot and part of her leg amputated, I am so sad. Would you visit her hospital in London please?"

Following Mill's visit, the blogger wrote: "You are a wonderful lady. Simply can't thank you enough — she is lovely and a very special person who really deserves help. Thank you."

Rihanna's Canadian boyfriend?

OH CANADA After quietly continuing to see Chris Brown after she was alleged beaten by him in February, Rihanna stepped out with a new guy on Monday night in N.Y.C., a source tells People magazine.

Rihanna, 21, stopped by Lucky Strike Lanes & Lounge with 10 pals for some bowling, drinks and plenty of PDA with Canadian hip-hop artist Aubrey (Drake) Graham, says a source — adding that the singer, who was "absolutely glowing," sipped whiskey and apple juice while staying close to Graham.

"The two of them were stealing kisses here and there the whole night," says the source.

The singer's group danced until midnight, when the new pair left together. "They were very cute. Both of them were in really good spirits (and) she was having a great time," adds the source.

Graham, an actor, is best known for playing wheelchair-bound Jimmy Brooks on Degrassi: The Next Generation. Also known as Drake in the hip-hop world, the Toronto native is a protegé of rapper Lil Wayne.

Reps for Rihanna and Graham could not be reached for comment. Reports about the pair first appeared in the New York Post's Page Six.

Beyoncé's struggle for a bootylicious body

HEALTH AND EXERCISE Beyoncé Knowles struggles to keep her bootylicious body, usmagazine.com reports.

"I'm not one of those people who doesn't have to work at it," the singer-actress, 27, tells the June issue of Self magazine. "I can't eat what I want, and I can't not go to the gym.

"I'm trying to do as much cardio as I can, so if I have a really long day of dancing (in rehearsals), then I'll run maybe three miles," Knowles told the magazine a few days before her I Am… tour kicked off.

"If not, then I'll run six," she continues. And that doesn't include her weight routine.

"I'll put on a song that I really like and do (biceps curls with) five-pound weights (for) the whole song and just try to burn out," she says.

Natalie undergoes kidney transplant

MEDICAL UPDATE Natalie Cole has a new lease on life, people.com reports.

The Grammy winner underwent kidney transplant surgery in L.A. on Tuesday and is now "resting comfortably," according to her rep.

Cole, 59, has struggled with kidney problems while undergoing treatment for hepatitis C, which she was diagnosed with a year ago.

"The kidney came from a deceased organ donor through the regional organ procurement agency, One Legacy," her rep said in a statement. In February, Cole was hopeful that her son Robert might be a possible donor match.

Cole, who has undergone kidney dialysis three times a week since September, is expected to spend the next three to four months recuperating. She plans to reschedule her summer tour dates in support of her album Still Unforgettable.

Amy takes a turn for the worse?

BACKSLIDE Amy Winehouse was hospitalized again recently in St. Lucia, where she has been living since the new year.

"She was complaining of chest pains so the doctor advised her to come in and she was kept in for observation and then released," a spokesman confirmed to the Daily Mirror. This is the third time Winehouse has been hospitalized in three months.

She's set to return to the U.K. for a concert next Sunday, but friends worry her drinking will get in the way.

The troubled singer — who is living on the Caribbean island while she writes new material — wants to make her stay permanent by purchasing a luxurious, $6-million US home, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The Rehab singer is interested in a 2.5-acre, six-bedroom beachside estate called Shingle Cove.

Amy, 25, says of her restorative time in St. Lucia: "I'm in the best place I've been for ages. I'm getting lots of exercise and have been able to relax."

Metro Recipe of the Day

Baked Swiss Steak

INGREDIENTS:

1 lb (500 g) boneless beef round steak, trimmed
1/4 tsp (1 ml) each salt and black pepper
Nonstick cooking spray
2 tbsp (25 ml) all-purpose flour
1 can (14 oz/398 ml) low-sodium tomatoes, undrained and cut up
2 stalks celery, sliced 1/2 in. (1-cm) thick
1 large yellow onion, cut into wedges
3/4 cup (175 ml) frozen whole kernel corn
1 1/2 tsp (7 ml) dried oregano leaves

METHOD:

1. Preheat oven to 350 F (180 C). Sprinkle steak on both sides with salt and pepper. Cut steak into 4 pieces. Pound both sides of pieces until pieces are 1/2 inch thick (page 116).
2. Coat 12-inch (30-cm) skillet with cooking spray. Heat skillet over moderately high heat. Add steak pieces and cook until browned, 3 minutes per side. Transfer to 13" x 9" x 2" (33 cm x 23 cm x 5 cm) baking dish.
3. Stir flour into skillet drippings. Stir in tomatoes, celery, onion, corn and oregano. Bring to boil over moderate heat and boil for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Pour over meat in baking dish.
4. Cover and bake until meat is tender, 1 1/4 hours. Serve meat and tomato mixture with mashed potatoes or hot cooked noodles.
